

Where is your company headed?

Where is your company headed? LBM Solutions, dedicated to developing and implementing proven, effective construction supply business models using progressive education, training and business coaching tools for the construction supply industry. Why progressive? Because of the breadth and depth of our services. Not only are we at the forefront of Installed Sales, but also providing innovative programs and consulting in: Customer Service, Value Added Sales, Operations Management and many other programs directly addressing the needs of today's Lumber and Building Material Supplier. This organization was founded on a culture of focused customer service, dedicated to helping grow the market share and profitability of each individual client, in their unique marketplace. We are here to assist our clients in increasing service levels to their customers, improving margins, increasing efficiency and growing their businesses. Our focus is to help you maximize your bottom line by adding value and fostering the type of long-term client/supplier relationships upon which our industry was founded. Our diverse client base includes single-unit lumberyard operations, multi-state regional operations, national chains, buying groups, suppliers to our industry, and industry trade associations. Mike Butts is the founder and President of LBM Solutions. His abilities and experience have been called "unsurpassed by other consulting firms in the industry". His experience has been gained through extensive work in the field at "street level", implementing the programs and practices he teaches.
